A Prayer drawn from 38 passage from Scripture:

Lord this morning, I am reminded that glory, honor, strength and gladness are found in your presence. When you manifest yourself, the trees sing, the fish, fowl, beasts of the field, creeping things and all men quake, the earth shakes and is burned, the heavens drop, the hills and hearts of men melt like wax, nations tremble, cities bow, steep hills and walls crumble.

Lord this morning, I am reminded that in your presence is found rest, fullness of joy, pleasures for evermore and times of refreshing. We can hide in the secret of your presence. When we approach you, we do so with thanksgiving and a joyful noise singing psalms. The upright will dwell in your presence.

Lord this morning, I am reminded that men often hid, walk away, are cut off, and cast from your presence. Like the psalmist I confess that I cannot flee from you. My plea is that you would not cast me from your presence or take thy holy spirit from me.
